VALLEJO UNVEILS “UNITE VALLEJO” INITIATIVE

Unite Vallejo Seeks Community Engagement, Organizational Progress

VALLEJO, CA – The City of Vallejo announced today the launch of Unite Vallejo. Via a video message from City Manager Greg Nyhoff, Unite Vallejo highlights the connection between City Council's goals and priorities and community investment in Vallejo. The movement aims to celebrate the many activities that unite the community, whether it is supporting youth, encouraging business development, or strengthening police and community relations. “Unite Vallejo” is ambitious and reflects the vision and goals of the City Council goals, foster’s pride in what Vallejo can accomplish, for the success of the community as a whole.

“Today I am sharing with you the City’s broader vision for ‘Unite Vallejo’ our exciting new initiative that will bring our community together and unite us with optimism and anticipation for Vallejo’s great future,” said City Manager Nyhoff. “When we are together, we accomplish more goals. Progress can only be made with a community that is united with the values and goals of the city that seeks to serve them. There has been much progress in the last decade to improve Vallejo, with increased development on Mare Island to a balanced budget. The City is confident that by unifying all our efforts, this exciting progress will continue.”
